

Employee Spotlight: Dan (Harve)

In our latest employee spotlight, we're thrilled to introduce you to Dan, affectionately referred to as Harve by his colleagues. With a calm demeanor and a wealth of experience, Harve serves as a valued Machinist at BHA, contributing his skills and insights to our team.

Before joining us at BHA, Harve's journey took him through various landscapes. He once contributed to the hustle and bustle of an automotive factory and even soared the skies as a flight instructor and commercial pilot. However, it was his genuine passion for the outdoors and firearms that truly defined his path.

Applying his machining expertise at BHA, Harve is one of the craftsmen behind our heirloom-quality lever-action rifles and AR500 rifles. With a focus on precision, Harve skillfully combines contemporary innovation with traditional craftsmanship in our workshop. The result is a collection of firearms that seamlessly blend utility and artistic expression.

Harve's first encounter with firearms was through a humble shotgun, a stepping stone that led to a deep-seated affection for hunting and the world of firearms. This love has become the backbone of his work at BHA, infusing his creations with a genuine connection to the outdoors and the traditions of the field.

For six years at BHA, Harve's dedication has been unwavering. Among the many firearms he's contributed to, he holds a special regard for the Model 89 chambered in 500 S&W Magnum. Its formidable power and precision make it a standout piece, a reflection of Harve's commitment to excellence.

Beyond the workshop, Harve finds his balance through outdoor pursuits. Whether he's at the shooting range, refining his skills, or out on a hunting expedition, he's in his element when connecting with nature. As the day winds down, Harve cherishes the simple joy of returning to his comfortable bed, wrapping up another adventure-filled day.

Harve's journey reminds us of the importance of merging personal passion with professional endeavors. BHA isn't just a workplace for him – it's a canvas where he brings his skills and his love for firearms together. His story exemplifies the harmony between individual dreams and a supportive workplace, showing us that when passion meets expertise, remarkable things can happen.
